FROM THE ARTISTIC DIRECTOR

Welcome to the 65th Anniversary Season at Arrow Rock Lyceum Theatre. This is my first season as artistic director, and here we are already celebrating our third production. It has been an exciting summer filled with extraordinary artists, wonderful audiences, and remarkable shows. We are so grateful you're here to share this experience with us.

So settle in, lean forward, and enjoy Stephen Sondheim's award-winning masterpiece, "Into the Woods."

This musical holds a particularly special place in my heart. "Into the Woods" was my senior production at the North Carolina School of the Arts in 1998, where I had the privilege of studying under my mentor, the legendary Gerald Friedman. I played the Baker's Wife in that production, and it is impossible to overstate how much I learned from Gerald as an artist and storyteller.

Our director, Michael Llubes, attended the same program several years later as a directing student and also studied under Gerald Friedman. In many ways, Michael carries forward Gerald's extraordinary approach to theater, bringing the same rigor, imagination and respect for the text.

Because of that connection, including "Into the Woods" in my inaugural season feels especially meaningful. To share this beloved work with you under Michael's direction is a gift, and I couldn't be more excited to welcome you into these woods.

DIRECTOR'S NOTE

"Careful the things you say, Children will listen. Careful the things you do, Children will see. And learn..."

"Into The Woods" is a favorite among so many of us in the theatre. Sondheim and Lapine's shimmering masterpiece is full of gorgeous music, dark humor and complex insights into growing up and the relationship between parents and children. Fairy tales are one of the oldest forms of storytelling. Why do these stories still have resonance? Why do we keep telling them to children? At this time in my life, I keep getting drawn back to these stories from childhood. I find myself going back into the woods and re-examining these tales I first heard as a child, now as an adult and seeing them in a whole new light.

Michael Llubes

In the show, a dozen fairy tales collide. All of the characters are on individual paths that intersect, all going after what they wish. Sondheim and Lapine reveal a maze of thorny paths in front of us, which we must untangle. What do these characters want and what do they do to get it? What happens when you get what you want? What if the thing you thought you wanted wasn't like what you thought at all? What happens when you stray from the path, or get lost or the path changes? All wishes have consequences, and all of our actions have an effect on other people.

At the center of the musical is the Baker and his wife, a childless couple who go on a quest to collect the items needed to break a spell to have a child. The piece is full of complex parent-and-child relationships. It explores the legacy of what our parents teach us and how we inevitably hand that down to our own children.

"Careful the tale you tell. That is the spell. Children will listen."

What a pleasure it has been working with this amazing group of artists to bring this production to life. It has been such a thrill to be part of artistic director Robyne Parrish's inaugural season and Arrow Rock's 65th anniversary season. Thanks for going into the woods with us!

- Michael Llubes, Director

HERITAGE SOCIETY

SUPPORTING THE LYCEUM

FOR GENERATIONS TO COME

The Arrow Rock Lyceum Theatre opened its doors in 1961, and over a half-century later it continues to be a vital arts institution in the heart of Missouri. Our Heritage Society was developed to ensure we have a long-lasting future. The generous individuals listed below have made a lifelong commitment to The Lyceum through a very special and important form of financial support, a planned gift. These gifts may come through a variety of estate planning options such as a will, gifts of life insurance, a gift annuity, or a trust.

We invite you to consider joining our Heritage Society and help provide vital, time-honored contributions to our historic theatre.
